Letter from our director

Dear friends,

I'm glad to share with you the 2021 Annual Report.

I'll be honest with you: 2021 was a rough year. After all the problems due to Covid 19 spreading, the coup d'état in Myanmar last February 2021 made the situation more and more tragic. None of us wanted to believe it but it's now more than a year that the country is back being under dictatorship, as well as being torn by a civil war. It's been over two years that students aren't back to school yet, and we had to put even more effort in facing all the new needs of the population.

A lot of NGOs went away from the country, and, because of the risks and the rejection of the visas, there are very few expats that are still in the country, including ours, who are keeping up the good work with the population, we are extremely proud of them. The registration process of our NGO in Myanmar, which was already in renewal before the coup d'état, is still waiting to be approved; we kept on working for Myanmar population and we ameliorated our support with new projects and a campaign to cope with the emergency. The work in the disability sector knew a big expansion and a strong reinforcement through the year, thanks to the collaboration with Don Carlo Gnocchi foundation, that made us expand the Community Based Rehabilitation in the outskirts of Yangon and made our staff more professional through specialized trainings and the entry of new people. In Yangon we also launched a new professional centre and established the basis for new operations.

The work in the emergency campaign of our supporters was outstanding and we have to thank you all for this: through this tough year we were witnesses of hope, both in the country itself with many families that welcomed the refugees, and with our supporters who wanted to express an endless solidarity.

In India we have registered a slow recovery, and the project could continue, even though we had to stop several times through the year because of new lockdowns. In the end of the year our Navchetan program could even extend to a new slum, Jagathpura, where the parents of children with disability asked for our help.

We also scheduled a few visits of our coordinators from the central office both in India and in Myanmar. These visits, due to Covid and the coup d'état, couldn't be possible anymore since the end of 2019.

It's with pleasure that I present to you the 2021 Annual Report: more than a report, it's a tool of dialogue and participation, and a sign of gratitude towards our partners, donors and all the people that support us with their actions and donations in this rough period.

We are now sure we can count on the efficacy and validity of our projects, both our Italian staff and the one in other places of intervention and on the relationship we have built with you all in those years. We are ready to face every challenge!

In the end, I would like to thank each of you: friends, donors and supporters. I'm grateful for the enthusiasm you are showing in sharing our common goal.

I'd also like to thank the Myanmar, India and Italy's New Humanity staff: your effort and devotion dedicated to the populations that are involved in our projects is our biggest strength.

Good reading!

Sir. Massimo Cattaneo
Director of New Humanity

METHODOLOGY

This social report refers to the year 2021.

It has been drawn up following the guidelines for Third Sector Bodies adopted by decree of the Minister of Labor and Social Policies of 4th July 2019; the Board of Directors of New Humanity International Foundation approved the final drafting.

After the approval, the social report was published in the "Annual Report" section of the Foundation's website newhum.org.

The information contained in this document are related to social documents, Constituency Act and the New Humanity International's Governing Document.

When it comes to the section of project presentation, all the projects realized by New Humanity Myanmar (in Myanmar) and Jeevandan (in India) are illustrated.

New Humanity International's staff has in fact supported local partners in projects' design, fundraising and relationships with donors, implementation, monitoring and reporting to donors.

Regarding the economic and financial situation, reference is made to the 2021 financial statement of New Humanity International Foundation, approved by the Board of Directors and drawn up in accordance with the principle of competence.

The data related to fundraising, resources and funds spent for single projects in 2021 have been extrapolated with the use of business accounting software, in collaboration with Italian and field administrative offices.

A summary of the funds spent by the partners on the implementation of the projects is given to complete the economic and financial situation, including both funds raised and sent by New Humanity International Foundation and funds raised directly by local partners with the support of the Foundation.

The activities carried out in 2021, the number of beneficiaries and the results achieved were detected by Myanmar and India's local partners, who are constantly monitoring the activities of the on-going projects, both in economic and social terms. They are monthly reporting all activities to the central office, the General Director and New Humanity International's President, in order to verify the realization of the statutory purpose and to implement the strategic lines drawn up by the Board of Directors.

COMMUNITY BASED REHABILITATION

TAUNGGYI: rural villages in Nan Haung and Kon Long tract

KENG TUNG: rural villages in Loi Mwe tract

YANGON: Dala district

This project's aim is the rehabilitation and social inclusion of children with disabilities in rural areas. It started in 2005 in Taunggyi, and since 2014 we have begun to operate in Kyaing Tong as well, where we finally had the permission of local authorities to build a rehabilitation center during 2022. Moreover, in 2021 we started figuring how to start the CBR in Yangon outskirts too, in Dala district.

63 people with disabilities and their families

Awareness and prevention meetings for 1.088 people

Professional trainings for 268 family members

The methodology of Community-Based Rehabilitation (RBC) indicated by the WHO consists in trying to promote children social inclusion not only through physical rehabilitation, but also through community and family work thanks to regular home visits. Our staff supports those children's families with care and rehabilitation services, but the methodology we have adopted also considers their autonomy as key; for this reason we have launched several activities in order to support them and make them independent in the economic field as well. Such initiatives include agricultural training, micro-entrepreneurships and specific make up and tailoring courses for young women to improve their skills.

Maung Htoo's story

My name is Maung Htoo, I'm 18. I was born with a club foot. My family is composed by 5 people: besides me I have 3 brothers and my father. We come from Ban Kan village, in Kon Lon village tract, in the province of Taunggyi.

Before 2018 our life used to be very average: I would help my mother with chores and my older brother used to be involved in occasional jobs while I looked after my little brothers. My father worked in a forest, very far from home, and he spent only a few days a year with us. I'm the only child with disability.

New Humanity has always provided us food and basic needs, in addition to special education meetings. My mother has always been grateful to receive such a support, as we didn't have regular incomes and we struggled to live with dignity.

My mother died in late 2018 from breast cancer and our family suffered a lot from her absence. My father started drinking and didn't take care of us anymore, my older brother went to work on the Thai border and sent us money every now and then. In addition to all this we also had to deal with the trauma of my 4-year-old brother who saw his mother die in front of him.

When my mother left us and I was not able to take care of housework or my little brothers, New Humanity welcomed us in some centers taking care of us with food, clothes, basic needs and, the most important thing, education. We were all brought to the Brother Felice center so we could continue our education. After a few months our younger brother was transferred to another center in the nearby town, Taunggyi, because he needed specialized help from a psychologist to overcome his trauma.

Nevertheless, we kept on seeing each other on a regular basis and we were happy to be able to stay in such a comfortable and safe environment. I cannot even imagine where we'd be now if we stayed in the village... Our dad visits us one or two times per year.

February 2020 followed the immediate school closure, which means we couldn't go on with our studies anymore. We spent our time in centers studying on our own. I'm now 18, and it's been 2 years since I had to give up school. In September 2021 New Humanity offered me the opportunity to participate in a scooters-repair training; I'm still doing it and I like it a lot. I really hope in the future I'll be able to come back to my village and open a scooters-repair workshop.

I couldn't feel more grateful for this opportunity, and I'd like to thank New Humanity for all the support. I think my mom would be proud to see all my life progresses.

Thank you New Humanity!

NAVCHETAN

This project aims to the rehabilitation and social inclusion of children with disabilities in the Jawahar Nagar slum of Jaipur, through the Community Based Rehabilitation methodology. Physiotherapy and special education sessions, carried out both in the center and at home, allow the improvement of children's physical condition, while promoting their integration into the community.

During 2021 our project has managed to expand to another slum in the city of Jaipur, Jagathpura, where our staff conducted an initial assessment of the cases and started the home visits by the end of the year. Navchetan center also got itself a brand new minivan for children's transport.

Shubham's story

Hi, I'm Shubham, and I was born 9 years ago in the Jaipur's Jawahar Nagar slum, in India. I was named Shubham, which means "good luck"! I'm the first child of my parents, and unfortunately my mommy fell off the stairs at the 8th month of pregnancy. After a complicated birth, I was born weighting only 1,5 kg. I cried late and I just couldn't be fed during my first months. When I was 6 months I was diagnosed with a physical and mental retard, and doctors announced I would have never been able to speak or walk. Bad news hit my parents really badly: they considered it a disgrace.

When they visited me from Navchetan for the first time, in January 2018, I was totally depending by my mommy's care. I was 6 but I couldn't sit or open my hands to grab objects: I just could stare at the same point and I spent the whole day laying down with both my arms and legs crossed.

After an initial evaluation, the physiotherapist informed my parents that I could slowly acquire new skills and even start moving around a bit. My mom couldn't believe it and went out of her way to help me, she was really interested and motivated and so she took me to the centre regularly, as well as spending a lot of time at home for the exercises that were taught to her by the physical therapist and then performed at home with my two little brothers.

Today, three years later, I am able to provide for my personal needs on my own. I get out of bed, brush my teeth and face and comb my hair while looking at myself in the mirror. I can sit without support, stand with aids, identify people and colours, grab a glass and drink independently, lift things, hold a pen and write letters and numbers. I am even able to move independently with a tricycle or crawl without support. I can even climb stairs with an aid. I have been provided with several aids by the program, over the years, such as a wheelchair and a walker.

Thanks to Navchetan's staff, I was able to fix all my documents and receive recognition at state level, so now I receive the public benefits provided for people with disabilities, and in this way I even contribute to my family's economy.

With all the improvements I have made in only three years, I keep telling my mom that I will provide for her when I grow up! My mom has also started working at the centre as an assistant, helping with meal preparation and transportation of children.

CENTERS FOR PEOPLE WITH DISABILITIES

This project, which started in 2002, aims to the rehabilitation of people with disabilities host in the centers of the cities we operate in. We support these realities by providing primary goods monthly, but also by improving the quality of services through the inclusion of qualified staff in the centers and the training of all their staff by professionals, such as physiotherapists, a nurse and a psychomotricist.

Khin's story

My name is Khin Hlaing Moe, I'm 6 and I'm a blind child. I have a twin sister and a younger brother. I used to live in Yay Tha Pyay village, in Nan Haung village tract with my parents until a few months ago.

Now I live in the centre of Phayar Phyu with my twin sister.

The first time I met New Humanity I was 4: I received so much support from them, starting from a new water system, monthly alimentary packs, special education sessions and occupational therapy, medical consultations and health hygienic training for my family.

Since my family couldn't take care of us anymore, we were sent to this new center a few months ago.

Here I met many new friends who play and learn with me and don't pay attention to my diversity, the assistants of the center take care of us affectionately and the staff of New Humanity visits us regularly.

Starting from the next month, I will start studying Braille with a special teacher (he is blind just like me!)

Thank you so much for all the support of New Humanity.

I'm really excited to learn new things and build my future!

During my permanence in the center I could go to school until graduation; after that I attended a nursing course, and I'm currently working at the hospital in maternity sector.

On the other hand, I keep on looking after both children and elders who are living in the center that welcomed me.

I really want to thank especially New Humanity for all the support given to me in the last few years, as well as the help I received from the center for my education!

It also aims to reduce the impact of increasing deforestation and soil erosion in recent years due to the implementation of environmentally unfriendly farming techniques and climate change. On this purpose, agricultural training are organized using the "Farmer Field School" method on farming techniques, mechanization of agriculture, and for the promotion of crops such as tea and coffee that are friendly to the local environment. # U Sai's story

My name is U Sai Khun, I live in the village of Kyeik Khaung, in Yang Kha village tract, in the province of Kyaing Tong. I am Wa ethnicity and 57 years old, my wife is mixed Lahu and Wa ethnicity, we have 6 children: 4 boys and 2 girls, of these 4 are married and live with their families.

New Humanity came to our village in 2018 to provide agricultural training, I contacted them to say that I had a few acres of land available, where we have always grown only maize and raised chickens or pigs and they proposed us to plant other types of crops.

New Humanity then visited our land, after the initial agricultural trainings, and decided to choose it as a model farm for the people in the Yang Kha village tract, developing modern farming techniques on our land and enabling us to increase our income in the long run.

I only used to cultivate 2 acres of land until then because of soil erosion, New Humanity introduced me to new terracing techniques and I was then able to add another acre of land to my crops.

During 2021 we were able to reach 4 acres of cultivated land, New Humanity also helped us with the irrigation system and taught us which crops are best for our area.

Today, my farm has produced 5.000 tea plants, more than 100 macadamia plants and many avocado trees, which a consistent increase of our income.

As seasonal plants we still plant corn in between other crops and thus make much more use of our soil.

We also grow seasonal vegetables, such as cabbage, eggplant, potatoes and legumes.

Thanks to New Humanity, many have followed our example and many other families have introduced the cultivation of tea, macadamia and other vegetables.

Thanks to New Humanity Myanmar!

WATER AND HEALTHCARE

The project, which has been running since 2008, aims to ensure a continuous and steady water supply in rural areas to improve the living and health conditions of the communities in which we operate. We therefore build water infrastructure systems and provide hygiene awareness meetings and training in communities. We also organize and train system management committees, which are responsible for maintaining and managing waterworks over time, thus ensuring their sustainability.

Maung's story

My name is Maung Saung and I'm 11 years old, when I was 3 I injured my eye and since then I only see out of my right eye, I am now attending fifth grade in my village, Lonekay. I live with my grandmother and my aunt. My aunt used to go every day to get water at the natural source in Nanhaung Mwetaw, which is very far from home, it would take so long and I could never help her because of the distance.

During 2021 a water project was implemented in my village, my aunt told me that New Humanity was going to help us have access to water more easily, the project's water tank is now right in front of my house and I am finally able to help my aunt to get water.

My aunt says, "Thanks to New Humanity we now have access to water at any times and no longer have problems during the summer like we used before!"

Close to our house there are 60 solar panels that are so big compared to what we normally use for light! It's really astonishing the size and number of panels needed to get the water to us...

I am really glad to finally have water nearby and to be able to help my aunt .

FOOD FOR MYANMAR

Following the coup d'état in Myanmar last February 2021, NHI launched a campaign to respond to the emergency, especially for the distribution of food and basic goods to the people left jobless and without food due to civil disobedience at first and civil conflicts that came later in the year. The campaign has been a huge success allowing us to help a huge number of people.

36.980 € spent on distribution

A displaced boy's letter

Hi guys,

What I am about to write could be a story or a letter, I think you already know what I am about to write, and that is, I am about to tell you about my life. Actually, I like to write stories, but stories don't come out when I try to write. I am not sure if this is going to be a story.

The main character in this story did not feel shocked when he came to know about the coup, he just changed his Facebook profile because everyone had done so. A week later, when people began the general strike and protesting the military regime, he began to understand a little more what was happening.

He joined the strike only to see the crowd. He felt like his country and its people were gradually losing their freedom day by day. He became angry when he heard the sound of grenades and tear gas against the protesting people.

He began to wonder why the military used such heavy weapons against peaceful protesters, he felt the blood boiling in his veins and joined the protests every day; at first he was tired, but afterwards he felt very happy to be a part of it.

He started his days by protesting against the coup, he would join the demonstrations with his full voice, he became very angry when the police killed peaceful protesters. The protests in his neighborhood were well organized: everyone was united, the neighborhood residents helped them hide when there were police raids to stop the protest. When the police left, they would come back to protest.

One day, armed police and soldiers stood in front of him and the crowd, demanding that they go home; at first he wasn't scared, but he started to worry when the police began detonating some grenades and firing rubber bullets into the crowd. His mother gave him a helmet when the protest men shouted to go ahead, and he was about to cry.

A grenade exploded near him, but he was able to avoid it.

Now thinking back to the time of peaceful protests is funny, it has been a year since the coup. How many times have you heard the sound of guns and bombs before? How many times have warplanes come to his state (Karian State) and dropped bombs? Once, he was frightened by rubber bullets, now he is not afraid even in front of live ammunition, all the people of the nation feel the same feelings.

People are just afraid of losing their happiness, the heroes of our country said "Please give us guns because our lives are at risk". This is a sad thing to hear, I wonder why this stuff is happening to my country.

But I am sure the people will win in the end, it has been more than a year and we are still resisting against the military, we don't give up even though we don't have the weapons to defend ourselves.

However, I am sure that peace will return to my country, we will live in a nation where there'll be no need for people to sacrifice their lives, where there'll be no need to cry, where we will not have to be afraid, we have tried so hard, all together, we are still doing our best, although it is very difficult.

ECONOMIC AND FINANCIAL SITUATION

In preparing the financial statements, the foundation used the format suggested by the "The guidelines and templates for the preparation of financial statements of nonprofit organizations" of the agency for the third sector, appropriately supplemented by the first accounting principles for the preparation of financial statements of nonprofit entities called "Systematic Framework for the Preparation and Presentation of financial Statements of Nonprofit Entities", this principle is the basis for the development of subsequent principles dedicated to the year accounting of individual financial statement items.

The financial statements have been prepared in an abbreviated form since the limits laid down in Art. 2435-bis of the Civil Code have not been exceeded.

FUND SPENT ON PROJECTS

New Humanity Foundation staff in 2021 supported local partners in projects design, fundraising and donors relationship, implementation, monitoring and reporting to donors of funds sent.

Many donors sent funds directly to local operating partner accounts on the field.

Although these funds are not part of New Humanity International Foundation's budget, it is useful to briefly present these numbers in order to illustrate the scale of the projects implemented in Myanmar and India through Foundation support.

Complementing the economic and financial situation presented in the previous pages is a statement of funds spent by partners for project implementation, which includes both funds raised and sent by New Humanity International Foundation and funds raised directly by local partners through Foundation support.

In 2021, projects were implemented in Myanmar and India for a total value of 595.508,60€
